The FXD1/2019/020 and FXD1/2026/030 T-Bonds settled at weighted average yields to maturity of 13.6105% and 14.2355%, respectively.

As part of the government's Liability Management Operations (LMOs), the Central Bank of Kenya (CBK) announced a switch auction from the FXD1/2013/015 Treasury Bond (T-Bond), with 1.4 years to maturity and coupon rate of 11.2500% , to the FXD4/2019/010 T-Bond, with 3.2 years to maturity and coupon rate of 12.2800% . The CBK sought to switch KES 10.0 billion from this issue, with investors placing bids worth KES 13.5 billion, resulting in a 135.2% subscription rate. The CBK accepted bids amounting to KES 11.0 billion. Following the switch auction, the weighted average yield to maturity of the FXD4/2019/010 T-Bond settled at 11.1398%.

Average Treasury Bill (T-Bill) yields recorded mixed performance during the month. The 91-day and 182-day T-Bills declined to 8.77% p.a. and 8.92% p.a., respectively, in September 2026, from 8.78% p.a. and 8.95% p.a., respectively, in August 2026, while the 364-day T-Bill rose marginally to 9.06% p.a. in September 2026 from 9.03% p.a. in August 2026. Investor demand was skewed towards the 91-day T-Bill, with an average subscription rate of 327.6% in August 2026.

The average Kenyan Shilling (KES) interest rate for a 1-month Bank Term Deposit decline by 13 basis points (bps) from 8.09% p.a. at the beginning of the month to close at 7.96% p.a. at the end of September 2026, while the average 3-month Deposit Rate decreased by 14 bps from 8.41% p.a. at the beginning of the month to close at 8.27% p.a. The average deposit rate for a 6-month Bank Term Deposit declined by 6 bps from 8.18% p.a. at the beginning of the month to close at 8.12% p.a.

Review of Inflation

Annual headline inflation accelerated by 20 basis points (bps) month-on-month (m-o-m) to 6.8% in September 2026, up from 6.6% in August 2026. The pickup in inflation was primarily driven by an acceleration in the Food & Non-Alcoholic Beverages index to 9.5% year-on-year (y-o-y) in September 2026 from 9.0% y-o-y in August 2026. Meanwhile, the Transport index eased marginally to 15.6% y-o-y in September 2026 from 15.7% y-o-y in August 2026, while the Housing, Water, Electricity, Gas and Other Fuels index slowed down to 3.2% y-o-y from 3.6% y-o-y over the same period. Relatedly, annual core inflation, which excludes volatile price items, accelerated to 4.0% in September 2026 from 3.4% in August 2026, while annual non-core inflation eased to 14.0% in September 2026 from 14.7% in August 2026.

The Central Bank of Kenya's (CBK's) Monetary Policy Committee (MPC), during its meeting on 11th August 2026, decided to hold the benchmark Central Bank Rate (CBR) steady at 8.75%. Key considerations that went into the decision included (i) the Middle East conflict had disrupted global supply chains and led to a sharp increase in energy prices and transportation costs, resulting in higher global inflation and moderated global growth prospects, (ii) the annual headline inflation rate in Kenya accelerated to 6.5% in July 2026 from 6.4% in June 2026 but remained within the CBK's target range of 5% ± 2.5%, (iii) Kenya's economic growth accelerated to 5.3% in Q1 2026 compared to 4.9% in Q1 2025, reflecting broad-based growth across all sectors of the economy, with stronger growth in the Industry and Services sectors, and (iv) annual private sector credit growth in Kenya remained strong at 10.2% in July 2026 and 10.6% in June 2026, compared to a 2.9% contraction in January 2025., highlighting improved demand for commercial credit by the private sector in line with declining lending interest rates. Overall, the MPC's decision to implement its cautionary monetary policy stance aims to anchor inflationary pressures amidst persistent geopolitical tensions, support continued economic growth, maintain exchange rate stability, and increase commercial bank lending to the private sector. The MPC is scheduled to meet again on 7th October 2026.

Review of the Exchange Rate

The Kenyan Shilling (KES) depreciated against the U.S. Dollar (USD) by 0.3% on a month-to-date (MTD) basis to trade at KES 129.79 per USD at the end of September 2026, from KES 129.45 at the end of August 2026. During the same period, the KES appreciated against the Euro (EUR) and Sterling Pound (GBP) by 2.1% each, to KES 147.22 and KES 171.68, respectively, at the end of September 2026, from KES 150.35 and KES 175.40, respectively, at the end of August 2026. On a year-to-date (YTD) basis, the KES depreciated against the USD by 0.6%, while it appreciated against the EUR and GBP by 2.8% and 1.1%, respectively.

At the end of September 2026, Kenya's official foreign exchange reserves remained robust at USD 15.04 billion, equivalent to 6.1 months of import cover. Usable hard currency reserves remained above the minimum statutory requirement of 4.0 months of import cover due to (i) robust capital flows from diaspora remittances, (ii) successful sovereign bond issuances, and (iii) net proceeds from the Government of Kenya's privatization initiatives. The foreign exchange reserves continue to provide adequate cover and a buffer against short-term domestic and external shocks.
